

Important Information about SAIL's 2026 July Session

How long do I have to complete my Sail course?

- All SAIL students have one calendar year from registration to complete their courses.
- The work submission deadline is July 28th for receiving a final grade on the August 6th report card.
- If you are at your one-year deadline, you will receive a final grade on the August report card whether you have completed the coursework or not.

How many hours or what kind of schedule should I work over the summer if I want a final grade on the August 6th report card?

This will vary from course to course, and you should consult your course outline or your teacher if you are unsure of the course structure.

As an example, you may decide to organize the next few weeks like so:

- July 2nd to 10th- Complete first two units of your course.
- July 13th to 17th - Complete the midterm assessment and next two units.
- July 23rd- 90% of the curricular coursework should be completed if requesting a final grade. You should also make arrangements for your final assessment.
- July 27th-29th- Complete your final assessment during our invigilation dates.

When considering how to schedule your time this summer, keep in mind that students taking full credit in-person summer school for academic courses typically attend classes Monday to Friday for either the full morning or full afternoon, and then complete homework outside of their in-class hours.

How can I book my invigilated assessments?

- Please click on this LINK for the summer invigilation schedule.
- Please note that you may be unable to book your invigilation appointment until all your required coursework is completed. You should consult your teachers early on to avoid disappointment or last-minute panic.

Can I continue working in my course over August if I do not need a final grade for August 6th?

- Yes! If you have not reached their one-year deadline, you will be able to continue working through your course in August. However, please keep in mind that teachers are not available for support or marking through the month of August.
- You will need to wait until after teachers return in September to receive invigilation opportunities or a final grade.
- If you are a Compass 8/9 student, please contact your teachers for clarification of your course completion deadlines for the Summer.

I need to have my course finished by September to take the next level at my school or satisfy post-secondary admission requirements. Will my school be able to see the completed course on my transcript?

- Not right away. The Ministry of Education does maintenance work on its systems over the summer, so your final grade might not appear on your transcript until sometime in the fall. SAIL will issue you a report card for your final summer marks, and you can use this to confirm for your school that you have completed your course. If you have any questions or concerns about this, please speak with your school counsellor or post-secondary admissions advisor.
- If you finish your course after the August report card and you require a final grade for September, please communicate with your school counsellor or post-secondary admissions advisor so that they are aware that you will not be receiving a final grade until sometime in September.
