RESEARCHING SCHOLARSHIPS

Students who are applying for any type of scholarship should research the scholarships they wish to apply for. This research should include the following:

- 1. Admission applications - admission applications to post-secondary institutions are typically separate forms with individual deadlines. These applications are usually mailed or electronically submitted to the Office of the Registrar or Admissions Office of the university, college, or school.
- 2. Application form - scholarship application forms should be requested well in advance of deadlines for submitting completed forms. As not all application forms are available from the scholarship coordinator, students should research where and how application forms may be obtained. It is the responsibility of the students to obtain application forms and complete the necessary documentation.
- 3. Deadlines these dates are firm. Some scholarships specify the date as "postmarked" or "received by". Avoid disqualifying your application. Prepare and submit your applications early.
- 4. Documents each scholarship or award requires specific documentation. Read, read, and re-read the application instructions. List what is required of the student, and what you need to request from the school or others (i.e. transcripts and marks including specific grades, interim or projected marks, principal's recommendation or ranking, letters of reference, essay, writing specific examinations, resume, bibliography, etc.)
- 5. Essays some scholarships require the applicant to write an essay or bibliography. Be aware of length, format, and subject matter requirements. If goals are requested, include short term and long term goals. Your long term goals may change over the next few years, but that is usually taken into consideration. Confer with an English teacher about your draft and final work.
- 6. Exams some scholarships require the writing of government exams and the scholarship component of the government exams. High academic criteria scholarships may require specific exam results such as Euclid Math Exam results, SFU's Dean's Scholarships in Math, Physics, Biology, and Chemistry have explicit requirements.
- 7. High academic the main criteria for entrance scholarships is a high GPA (grade point average). Some scholarships require that candidates be in the top percentile of their graduating class. Discuss your candidacy with your counsellor.
- 8. Nomination - some scholarships, usually high academic or entrance scholarships, require that the school or principal nominate a student for a specific award. The principal may be unaware of the post-secondary institutions students are applying to, so inform a counsellor and take the time to discuss your options with the principal. Scholarships that require nominations usually have early deadlines for applications.

- 9. Procedures/responsibilities read the instructions of each award, and follow them. If you are told to print, then print the information. Some essays must be hand-written, others typed. Be neat. Be tidy. Be thorough. If uncertain about some details or instructions, a phone call to the contact individual may be required for clarification. Check out who is responsible for compiling or mailing documents and application forms. Be prepared. Ask for references or documents at least two weeks before the application deadline. DO NOT leave requests for information to the last minute. See References.
- 10. References most scholarships require one or more letters of references or recommendation from the principal and others. To assist your reference, provide them with the following items:
  - a copy of your transcript and resume and the award you are applying for
  - a copy of the criteria the award is based on
  - ***this request should be made AT LEAST TWO WEEKS before the reference is required

Writing reference letters is time consuming. Students are responsible for obtaining and completing application forms. Application procedures require considerable time to complete. Deadlines are firm. Request documents well in advance of any deadlines.

- 11. Service & leadership - more scholarships are including service and leadership in their criteria. These may include volunteer activities in school or in the community. Brainstorm yours then check with a friend. We do not give ourselves credit for what we have accomplished.
- 12. Other be neat, follow instructions, research, attend scholarship information meetings, check material posted outside room 309. Ask parents, coaches, and volunteer agencies you are associated with if there are any scholarships, awards, or bursaries available to you. You must do the research. You are responsible for obtaining application information, forms, and completing the necessary documentation. Presentation is very important.

GENERAL POINTERS ON PREPARING SCHOLARSHIP APPLICATIONS

- 1. Start early. It takes time to prepare a good application: time for the counsellors to prepare transcripts, time for teachers to write letters of reference, and time for you to revise your application.
- 2. Keep originals. Save originals for your final copy and use photocopied forms as your working copies. Always keep a copy of your completed applications and data.
- 3. Quality. Your letters, resumes, or essays should look as professional as possible, typed or neatly hand-written as indicated. Use quality paper and ensure that your copy is printed neatly. Packages should look professionally bound. Competition for large scholarships is fierce and details matter.
- 4. Use the writing process to write your essays or letters.
  - a. GENERATING: Be comprehensive. Brainstorm thoroughly and include everything that represents a commitment of time or an achievement: contests, awards, conferences, drama, public speaking, school or community service, positions held, honour roll, courses, languages, hobbies, and work experiences are relevant. Have someone who knows you well check for omissions.
  - b. DRAFTING: Write out your accomplishments and experience in a coherent composition.
    - i) BE SPECIFIC: Elaborate with specific details so the selection committee can tell that your qualifications are based on fact. Avoid generalizations such as "I enjoy working with people". Instead, give specific details about with whom you have worked, on what, and with what result.
    - ii) SELL YOURSELF: Keep in mind that the selection committee may have several hundred applications. Make yourself stand out with powerful, clear language and compelling evidence of your unique qualities.
  - c. REVISING: Have your work read by several people who care about you and know how to write. Ask a teacher for help. Change anything that sounds insincere or arrogant. Make sure your composition follows a logical order. A strong opening sentence stating the purpose of your application followed by the reasons you qualify for the award are essential.
  - d. EDITING: When you have finished revising for content, examine your mechanics.
    - i. SENTENCE STRUCTURE: Check for repetition: "In grade eight I..., In grade nine I..., In grade ten I..." is boring. Vary your sentence structure.
    - ii. VOCABULARY: Eliminate simple words and phrases such as "a lot." Avoid big words of which you are not sure of the meaning. Big words used incorrectly will NOT impress.
    - iii. PUNCTUATION: Check for comma splices, run-on sentences, and sentence fragments.
    - iv. SPELLING: Spelling matters. If you know you are a poor speller, make sure you either use spell check on a computer or have an expert speller check it for you.

- e. PUBLISHING: When publishing your work, either print or write neatly on the form provided by the university or other institution OR use plain white 8 1/2" X 11" paper and type.
- f. Recommendations or Letters of Reference. Allow sufficient time—usually two weeks—for a referee to write a letter. Don't ask on Wednesday for a letter for Friday. Your references need to be well written and specific. A rushed letter won't be either.

OBTAINING A REFERENCE LETTER

FOR A SCHOLARSHIP

Unless it is specified, try to get a mix of supporting letters from a teacher, a boss, and someone from the community. Make certain that the people you choose will speak positively about you. It is difficult to write a letter about someone for whom you have reservations. The writer's tone will likely be evident in the letter. Ask the person if they have any reservations about writing a letter of recommendation or support on your behalf.

If you are applying for several scholarships, ask your referee to either use a "To Whom It May Concern" introduction or ask them to put it on a word processor so that they can easily reprint the letter without having to re-write it every time.

Provide your referee with a summary of details about yourself (your resume and a copy of transcript). Even if they don't use all of the information, it will help them to make specific statements about you.

Specify those things that you would like to see included in the letter. (See forms below)

Among these might be:

- a) your character
- b) your accomplishments
- c) unique characteristics
- d) service, clubs, etc.
- e) awards and prizes
- f) academic standing if it is relevant to that person
- g) academic qualities if it is relevant
- h) interests as they relate to the letter writer

It is common courtesy to provide as much information as possible and to request as early as possible any documentation or reference letters you may require.

Please use the following "Scholarship checklist" document and "Request for a letter of reference" to aid you and others with this process. We recommend you fill in the Request form, photocopy it, and then give it to prospective referees. You may then want to highlight the information most pertinent to a given scholarship.

WRITING A LETTER OR ESSAY IN SUPPORT OF A SCHOLARSHIP

If specific information is required, pay careful attention that all details are covered. The criterion has been decided upon and the committee screening applications will be looking for that information.

Keep the tone of your writing business-like. Avoid a chatty, casual approach. If you need to write a letter, use a standard business letter format. If you are writing an essay, use all the essay skills you have acquired at school. The committee will be looking for content but they will be influenced by style.

If there are no specific requirements for an essay or letter, you should:

- reflect on how specific subjects have influenced you
- provide a brief outline of your interests, hobbies and activities
- provide a brief summary of positions and offices held by you in school, youth organizations and/or the community
- include a short statement of your purpose in seeking to attend a specific post-secondary institution
- include specific information concerning awards, scholarships and prizes won by you in any field
- share details of employment in the last two years, during vacations or after school
- provide details of any volunteer work you have done

Attend to the technical details of your essay or letter.

If instructions do not specify that the letter or essay be hand-written, type the document. If you are handwriting the final copy, make certain it is neat and legible. Use 8 1/2" X 11" white paper, one side only.

Have a Social Insurance Number. You need a SIN in order to be eligible for a scholarship.

In order to get a SIN, Service Canada requires individuals to apply in-person. By doing so, if your application is in order, you can obtain your SIN in less than 15 minutes and do not need to part with your original proof of identity documents. For more information, check out: www.servicecanada.gc.ca/eng/sc/sin/index.shtml

Do not assume that the committee will read between the lines. If you have done something noteworthy, include it and be specific. Most scholarships will have many worthy candidates. The better job you do of selling yourself, the better chance you will have of receiving a scholarship or award.

Finally, the more scholarships you apply for, the better your chances are of attaining one. However, do not apply for a scholarship for which you do not meet the criteria.

PLACES TO VOLUNTEER

Many scholarships emphasize community service. Below are some examples of places where one may like to search for volunteer opportunities.
