Counsellor's Corner: Statements and Questions that Foster Resilience

Promoting Anxiety	Fostering Resilience
That won't work because...	What's your plan if.... ? What information can you use to....? How will you....? Who will be able to help with....?
This is dangerous.	Notice how... Do you see...? Are you feeling (nervous? Excited?)...?
This fell apart.	What would you do next time if... When did you notice...? What did you learn from...?
We can't do this.	What's another way...? What is important about this idea...? Which parts of this idea are useable?

This Week at Fleetwood Park - Principal's Message: November 19th to 23rd

Good morning Dragons,

After a couple of unusual weeks responding to the measles exposure, life at Fleetwood Park Secondary is gradually returning to our usual routines. On November 26th, the final exclusion lists will be closed, and all students and staff will be cleared for their return to school. As I have previously mentioned, this has been an unsettling time, and we greatly appreciate the resilience and patience the entire Fleetwood Park community has demonstrated. Thank you for your assistance as we have navigated through these uncharted waters together!

This week we saw a few rays of sunshine and our students took advantage of the weather.

I had a chance to drop by an impromptu game of football at lunch time. Smiles, physical activity and friendship... it was a great display of Fleetwood Park's Dragon spirit in action.

On Monday we had the opportunity to bring our Department Heads together. In our meeting we shared instructional practices and initiatives that support First Peoples Principles of Learning. It was a rich exchange of ideas and affirmed the progressive work of our Fleetwood Park team. My thanks to Department Heads for sharing your work with our team, and my thanks to the entire FPSS staff for your leadership within this very important new curriculum.

Ms. Im's Photography students have been very busy. I am enjoying the recent photography on display in our hallways. Our students are very talented. Everyone should check out the Photo Charades challenge!

The Modern Languages Department brought back a very popular guest this week. Le Boheme Creperie is always a big hit with our students... and provides them a taste of authentic French cuisine... and an opportunity to order their crepes en francais. Tres bien!

On Tuesday I met with our Staff Committee to debrief all aspects of the measles exposure. Thank you to all members of the committee for your questions and feedback. There was much to discuss, and our conversation certainly reinforced the complexity and fluidity of the past couple of weeks. And again, as previously mentioned, I was reminded of the importance of careful communication, working with our community partners, and the flexibility required during unexpected and unusual issues such as this.

This week we have been welcoming Post-Secondary institutes into Fleetwood Park to speak to our students about their admittance processes. On Wednesday, Kwantlen Polytechnic was here. Thank you to Mr. Church and our Career Education Department for organizing the visits... I know that our students are appreciative of this opportunity.

Our recent measles exposure was also a reminder of the importance of a well-organized Health and Safety Committee. This morning our committee held their regularly scheduled meeting to discuss the health and safety of the Fleetwood Park community. Great thanks to Ms. Forsyth and Mr. Kirincic for your leadership. Staff, please watch for room inspection checklists to be distributed over the next few days.

Tomorrow I am meeting with teachers interested in reviewing the Grade 8 rotation structure. I look forward to our discussion and the work this Advisory Group will do to support our very powerful grade 8 electives program.

Lastly, I wanted to congratulate student Udhay Lalli on his successful completion of the RCMP Youth Academy Program. This is such a significant achievement. It is a wonderful example of the many incredible opportunities that are available for Fleetwood Park students. Well done!

I hope your week has been filled with positive stories of success and interesting challenges!

Enjoy your Friday and all the best for a relaxing weekend.

Ken
